DP9

DP9 are the leading providers for town planning advice to major developers and landowners in the UK. The practice is advising on over 7.5m square feet in both the private and public sector. This practice of planning and design experts appointed The Interiors Group to complete the design and build of their own offices. This traditional banking hall on Pall Mall remained empty for many years. The solution to making it viable was found in the innovative design of the mezzanine floor meeting area, which also gives birth to a magnificent visitor reception space, bathed in natural daylight.

Our client said:

"We felt we could trust The Interiors Group totally; we were under severe time pressures having eight weeks to complete the build. It was vital to our business that we had no reduction in the back office services to our clients; I am pleased to say you achieved what seemed to be an impossible task at the start."

Board Room

Client meeting areas are one of the most important functions for this new office, where the natural unfilled limestone flooring and glazed elevations help to create a stylish and unique visitor experience. The extended-height ceiling above the general office delivers a feeling of space, light and fresh air, creating a very pleasurable working atmosphere for employees.

Our client's advisor said:

"We had no real concerns about you completing this project as you had such a strong track record and came highly recommended by our agents Donaldsons. I continued to receive positive feedback during the course of the project and it really is a fabulous place to work."
